SUMMARY

As a full-stack MEARN (MongoDB, Express, Angular, React, and Node.js) developer with over a year of experience, I have a proven track record of building responsive, user-friendly web applications. I possess strong expertise in HTML5, CSS3, JavaScript, and TypeScript, alongside hands-on experience with frameworks like React, Angular, and some exposure to Vue.js. My background includes optimizing performance and ensuring code quality while delivering clean, maintainable code.

I studied web development for one year at the Information Technology Institute (ITI), where I gained comprehensive training in programming, and I hold a degree in Civil Engineering. I excel in collaborating with teams to align design and user experience and am excited about the opportunity to contribute my skills and passion for creating innovative web solutions to Instabug.
